

RunCoCo: How to run a community collection online

Alun Edwards
OUCS
University of Oxford
runcoco@oucs.ox.ac.uk

- ▶ Training, support, networking, e.g.
  - ▶ Two-way engagement on Twitter: @runcoco
  - ▶ Maintained momentum with the list
  - ▶ Disseminated key methodologies, under The Great
  - ▶ Developed an online (CoCoCo) to collect
- ▶ To crowdsource with is not easy, but here are some tips
  - ▶ Aim for two-way engagement
  - ▶ Be part of your community
  - ▶ Challenge your assumptions

Beyond Collections
Crowdsourcing for public engagement
Free conference, University of Oxford
26 May 2011

Invite people to join

Information

Category:

Student Groups - Academic Groups

Description:

A place for people to chat about Old English, Anglo-Saxon, especially texts you have to work on etc.

Privacy type:

Open: All content is public.

Admins

- Doc Lee (creator)

Members

6 of 1,123 members

See All

Sebastiaan

The Old

Samantha

Old English Wall*Info*Photos*Discussions

Share

Post*Photo*Link*Video

Write something...

Tony Candland Hælsa, i'm just getting started on learning OE can someone tel me what the bests resources are, thank you

03 November 2010 at 10:45 · Like · Comment

Jay Collyer likes this.

Doc Lee See my note below re Mark Atherton's book

19 November 2010 at 17:21 · Like

Jorge Salum <http://www.utexas.edu/cola/centers/lrc/eieol/engo1-X.html><http://bosworth.ff.cuni.cz/>

21 November 2010 at 12:29 · Like

Write a comment...

Grimmsman Futhorc OK, I expect this is going to sound like a very silly (viz. basic) question, but on the basis that there is no such thing as a silly question.....

As a newcomer to Heathenry I am keen to learn some Old English in order to be able to study some of the core texts such as the Anglo Saxon Chronicle and Beowulf in the origin...

See more

the 90th Anniversary of the Unveiling of Skenfrith War Memorial

Church Skenfrith

LEST WE FORGET.
SHALL we ever forget what the heroes have done,
To fight for their King and their home,
With a smile on their lips and their faces aglow,
And no thought of the days yet to come?
Shall we ever forget their ardour and cheer,
Their songs and their laughter and cheer?
In their ranks a 'John', and a 'John', and a 'John',
'Till they came face to face with the Hun.
Shall we ever forget when they took up their place
In the trenches so muddy and cold,
When 'Jolly and Hansell' was 'Hamer and Tom' ?
'Till their spirits were brave and well won.
Shall we ever forget what the stars have done
That a hero has had fallen and slain ?
'The gun pointed on him, and the birds seemed to sing,
And the future seemed dark with danger.

Beyond Collections

Crowdsourcing for public engagement
Free conference, University of Oxford
26 May 2011